

Print Media S.A Fellows – 2000 Awards

Winners

01

Denis Beckett

Denis Beckett has been Chairman of the judges for the Mondi sponsored Magazine Publishers' Awards for ten years. He has been involved not only in the organizing committee but also has developed the judging structures and parameters. Denis has always put together an excellent judging team with outstanding results.

02

Jane Raphaely

Jane Raphaely is a doyenne of the print industry. She has been the women's voice in this industry for as long as one can remember and has always been at the cutting edge of magazine publishing. Her driving force for women's issues and her abilities as a successful publisher have contributed immensely in the development of magazines in South Africa

03

Joe Thloloe

Joe Thloloe is recognised as a tireless worker for the editorial fraternity. He has contributed almost all of his time to the media industry and has played a major role in SANEF over the years. His dedication has always kept him participating within the various print media industry structures.

04

Noel Coburn

Noel Coburn's contributions to media research over the years have been immeasurable. He has played an important role on behalf of print in the allied marketing communications industry structures. He is a publisher who was also recognised by the marketing communications industry for his contributions, with the Protea Award.

05

Rory Macnamara

Rory Macnamara has been involved in the ABC for many years. He was President of the ABC from '97 to '99 and has sat on all validating committees, rules committees and has been involved with the development of the ABC for a lengthy time. Rory was also a leading party in the early development of the Specialist Press Association