Article:

On Thursday, 17 November 2011, the who's who of the South African magazine industry descended on the Sandton Convention Centre to celebrate the exceptional talent of local writers, designers and publishers across the consumer, customer and business-to-business sectors. Says PICA 2011 Chairperson Danielle Weakley: "We are thrilled that both well-known names and bylines were awarded kudos, along with new up and coming young talents. Congratulations to all the winners – competition was stiff this year as well had a 25% increase on submissions and winners had to work really hard to be ahead of the pack."

About PICA

The PICA Awards, held annually, are open to all Association of Magazine Media (Formerly MPASA) member publications. The Awards acknowledge standards of excellence in magazine publishing and journalism. Through the PICA Awards, AMM believes that member publishers will aspire to sustain and advance the quality of their titles for the benefit of their readers.

About AMM

In 1999 the MPA (Magazine Publishers Association) and the (SPA) Specialist Press Association merged to form the MPASA, now known as AMM, Association for Magazine Media. The former SPA served the needs of the technical and trade publishers. The mandate of the new organisation was to address the needs of all magazine sectors in SA. AMM is the association of publishers of customer, business-to-business and consumer magazines in South Africa. AMM works closely with strategic partners to attain its vision of elevating the industry by providing relevant research data and information, conferencing opportunities and awards, thus being a repository of industry knowledge for members, a networking vehicle and a means of marketing and promoting members' achievements to advertisers, readers and the community at large. Our current strategic partners are: the ABC, PMSA, MCC, AIP, ASA and the Press Council of South Africa.
